CHURCHILL CALLS ON UNITED NATIONS TO SETTLE RUSSIAN-IRANIAN DISPUTE

Lewis Completes Four-Day Buildup Of UMW Demands On Coal Industry

Union Leader Invites Nation's Mine Operators To "Make a Bid"

MANAGEMENT TO HAVE FIRST INNING MONDAY

Lewis Hints at Strike unless Working Conditions Are Improved

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis invited the nation's soft coal operators today to "make a bid—maybe we'll buy" as he ended a four-day oratorical buildup of demands for his United Mine Workers.

The shaggy-haired union leader hinted the miners might strike unless they get the improved working conditions which he stressed throughout his presentation of nine general demands.

The operators will have their first inning Monday, still without a specific detail of what the union wants. The contract conference was recessed until then at the request of Charles O'Neill, the operators' chairman.

Although Lewis made no suggestion for financing the health and safety program he demanded, the idea was planted by an associate that the union may again ask that a royalty be levied for that purpose on every ton of coal mined. Lewis demanded a ten cent per ton royalty last year, but later dropped the point.

Lewis climaxed a recital of death and disaster in the mines today with the query "I wonder if the public likes to have its coal smeared with blood," and asked the operators:

"What are you doing about it? What have you done? Will you do something?"

Hints at Possible Strike

Hinting at a possible strike, he said: "It is my opinion, for what it is worth, that the miners don't want to work for you gentlemen any more unless you remedy these conditions."

Referring to a statement last night by Chairman O'Neill that the welfare matters should be taken up by state legislatures and had no place in the contract conference, Lewis said the mine workers "know the operators will do nothing about their pleadings, I think you have played that hand out," he said.

"Adolf Hitler forgot the human equation. The coal operators forget the human equation now when they forget what free coal miners will do in these conditions."

Lewis received comparative wage rates in the building trades, which go up to $2 an hour for electricians and plasterers, and said that the miners, at $1 an hour, were "receiving $2 a week less than a dressmaker."

He had made no specific wage demands for the union, but he thundered to the operators:

"What have you got to offer? We'll be glad to consider any offer you care to make."

No Time for Ultimatums

"When you orators take the floor next week make us an offer. Maybe we'll buy. Caveat emptor let the buyer beware."

Lewis also warned the operators that this is no time for ultimatums, dictums, decrees and ukases, on the issue of recognition of the UMW's supervisory workers union. He urged the operators to reconvene their policy committee "and adjust that controversy" which provoked a strike last October.

Flood Control Cost Can Be Readily Absorbed

NO ONE should be apprehensive over the cost of the planned flood control project for, in all probability, that cost can be easily absorbed without increasing the city tax rates in the long run by virtue of the increased assessable property values that will undeniably result from the project. In fact, a decrease could ultimately result.

The estimated total cost of the flood control project at present is $7,872,606, of which the city would have to raise $1,070,693. There is already bond issue authorization for $800,000 of that amount. It will be necessary to ask the next legislature for additional bond authorization. That should be sufficient to cover all possible revisions in the cost estimates, which under recent conditions are constantly changing. At least $300,000 should be sought, possibly $500,000, or splitting the difference, $400,000.

The whole of that sum need not be spent and probably the greater part of it will not be needed. But unless such flexible authorization is sought and obtained from the next legislature, and there should be too strict limitation, it would be necessary to wait another two years for the needed authorization, possibly longer.

Delay in getting this needed project under way is an important consideration. It can be started by May of next year, provided all the financial preparations are made. But if they are not, if they are held in abeyance for another two or three years, there is the possibility that the federal army engineers, discouraged by lack of local support, may be no longer interested in the project, and so it would be lost and a fresh start toward flood control would have to be undertaken with the chances of not getting it for a number of years, if at least a decade.

A recent report by the secretary of the chamber of commerce shows that a large commercial and industrial development is in store for the community, and has been for some time past, but that it has been stopped by the existing flood menace. Under flood control, many new small manufacturing plants would come into Cumberland at once, employing thousands of new workers and consequently increasing city revenues.

An investment of some $8,000,000 or even more, the chief of which will be borne by the federal government, can certainly be expected to result in new business, new industry, new working opportunities.

Thus, the city of Cumberland faces a splendid investment opportunity, of which due advantage should be taken and its economic prospects immediately enhanced.

This newspaper repeats that the flood control issue is paramount in the current city campaign; that when citizens cast their ballot Tuesday for candidates for mayor and city council they should select those who are deemed the most likely to give active support to the long-planned flood control project, which is, from any viewpoint, a real necessity as it is a real opportunity for the growth and progress of the community in this postwar period.

Fraulein Says Soldier's Death Was Accidental

By RICHARD A. O'REGAN

FRANKFURT, March 15 (AP)—An American army sergeant was killed by his own gun in his billet near Heddernheim yesterday, and a 20-year-old German girl was quoted as saying she accidentally shot him as soon as he returned to work.

The union's conference, which originally called the strike, came to its decision after a day-long study of terms in the settlement reached on Wednesday, the one hundred and thirteenth day of the walkout of 175,000 production workers.

President R. J. Thomas, of the UAW-CIO, announced the conference's verdict shortly before the session adjourned after having heard many arguments reported to have been on both the pro and con sides of the dispute.

The union's conference, which now goes to the ninety-two individual UAW-CIO locals for final ratification, was a broad answer as to what the government's position was.

Acceptance of the national agreement with General Motors was approved, Thomas said.

However, local issues are left to each respective local, he added.

The sergeant had gone out of the room, and returned to find the gun had placed it after returning to his billet at 9 a. m. from light duty.

The girl said there had been an argument, in which the soldier apparently told her he wanted nothing more to do with her. She had intended to kill herself.

Other soldiers rushed to the sergeant's room when they heard the shot, and found the German girl standing over the sergeant's body with the gun in her hands.

She said she had picked up the gun from a table where the sergeant had placed it after returning to his billet at 9 a. m. from light duty.

The girl said there had been an argument, in which the soldier apparently told her he wanted nothing more to do with her. She had intended to kill herself.

The union president said that a number of local unions still were confronted with the so-called "local demands" which were not settled in the national agreement reached Wednesday.

Thomas declined to attempt an estimate as to how many local were thus involved.

Technicality Brings Stalin's Resignation, Election to New Post

LONDON, March 15 (AP)—Marshall Stalin resigned tonight as chairman of the Soviet Union's Council of Peoples' Commissars and immediately was elected chairman of a newly-established Council of Ministers. As chairman he is premier and head of the government.

Earlier Goering had sought to justify the invasion of Yugoslavia without a declaration of war on a broadcast recorded here by the Soviet monitor, was a technicality brought about by the change of name of the Russian governing body, substituting "ministers" for "peoples' commissars."

Stalin had been chairman of the Council of Peoples' Commissars since May 22, 1941.

Judges listened intently as the number one Nazi war crimes defendant expounded his ruthless theory toward the close of his third day on the witness stand.

Then, with a sense of dramatic timing, Goering ended testifying in his own defense with a quotation he attributed to Winston Churchill: "In the struggle for life or death there is no lethality."

Goering described Churchill as "one of our strongest and toughest opponents." Defense counsel said the quotation was obtained from a German white book, and was al-

Canadian "Spy" Probe Extends To Parliament

Commons Member, Three Scientists and Engineer Are Accused

By HARRY T. MONTGOMERY
OTTAWA, March 15 (AP)—A Communist member of the Canadian Parliament, three scientists and an engineer were charged today with working with a Moscow-directed "spy" network collecting atomic and other wartime secrets in Canada.

Nine persons in positions of trust in the government during the war now have been publicly identified in the spy activities, with at least five others under detention incommunicado still to be interrogated.

Heading the new list of accused were Fred Rose, Polish-born member of the House of Commons, known as the first and only communist member of the Canadian Parliament, and Dr. Raymond Boyer, an assistant professor of chemistry at McGill University in Montreal, one of the country's top scientists and a man cited by the government for his "outstanding contribution to the Allied cause" during the war.

Rose, 38, was arrested by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at his Ottawa home late last night a few hours after attending the opening of a new session of Parliament.

"Spy-Thriller" Details

Dr. Boyer and the other three were listed by the two-man commission investigating the espionage case in its second interim report, replete with "spy-thriller" details of the operations it said were carried out under Moscow's direction through the Soviet embassy.

In a general indictment of the accused, the commission said that "some witnesses holding strategic positions have made the significant statement under oath that they had a loyalty which took priority over the loyalty owed by them to their own country, and for that reason they acted as they did."

In addition to giving further details of the operations directed by the former military attaché of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, Col. Nicolai Zabotin, the commission today involved for the first time the Tass news agency, an official Soviet government organization. The former Ottawa chief of Tass, Nicolai Zhelevinov, who returned to Russia late last fall, was said to have made reports on the Soviet network.

These are the highlights of the second interim report, made public after questioning of forty-eight witnesses in forty-four different sittings of the commission since early this year.

Boyer Admits Charge

Dr. Boyer, employed by the government on secret research dealing principally with production of a new explosive known as "R.D. X," which also was made in the United States, told the commission that "commencing early in 1943 and continuing into 1944, he gave, for transmission to the Soviet Union, full information with regard to his work which he himself admits was secret."

The three involved besides Dr. Boyer were:

Harold Samuel Gerson, employed successively in several government departments handling production of war materials, especially chemicals, explosives and ammunition.

Squadron Leader (Canadian Air Forces equivalent of major) Matt Simons Nightingale, 40, with an engineering degree earned at McGill University after attending a military school in Mobile, Alabama, engaged in airport construction, and;

Dr. David Shugar, who has a Ph. D. degree in physics from McGill, employed in the navy on research on anti-submarine devices, in which work he had to visit various naval establishments, including laboratories in Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom." He was born in Poland.

In addition to the war powers bill, the House passed and sent to the Senate a measure authorizing $10,000,000 chiefly for research to seek cures for mental diseases. It was approved by a 74 to 10 standing vote.

The Senate at the same time approved legislation for $150,000 to continue meat and flour subsidies until June 30. It goes back to the House for consideration of some slight Senate changes.

A Senate Agriculture subcommittee investigating the lumber shortage was told by an administration official that "stringent controls" on lumber are needed if the housing program is to work. The witness was Norton E. Long, assistant administrator of the National Housing Agency.

Removal of price controls on farm commodities was sought at two other hearings. Don Paarberg, Cornell university economist, made this recommendation on the ground that it would relieve food shortages, before a House Food committee studying the situation. A similar proposal was urged before the House Banking committee, considering a year's extension of OPA, by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. O'Neal also asked a curb on wages.

In addition to the war powers bill, the House passed and sent to the Senate a measure authorizing $10,000,000 chiefly for research to seek cures for mental diseases. It was approved by a 74 to 10 standing vote.

The Senate debated a measure to raise the minimum wage from forty to sixty-five cents an hour but quit until Tuesday without reaching a vote.

Other developments at the Capitol on defense and foreign affairs:

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.), of the House Naval committee, ordered hearings on what he called an "arbitrary cut" of $2,000,000,000 in the (Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

Sen. Vandenberg Urges Continuous Sessions of UNO Council

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The Senate is said to have assured both Iran and Turkey that it will stand firm with them against any foreign aggressions which violate the principles of the United Nations Charter.

Churchill said at a dinner climaxing an all-day city reception.

Churchill said that at the Potsdam conference the Americans and British offered Russia "a joint guarantee of the complete freedom of the straits in peace and war, whether for merchant ships or ships of war."

To this guarantee Turkey would gladly have subscribed," Churchill said. "But we were told that was not enough. Russia must have a fortress inside the straits from which she could dominate Constantinople."

Speaking two days after General

Stalin called him a "warmonger," Churchill failed to mention the Soviet leader by name but did refer to the "head of the Soviet government" as a signer of an agreement to evacuate Iran.

Balanced BudgetMovement Spreads

THE MARYLAND PUBLIC EXPENDITURE COUNCIL reports that the people of the state are mobilizing behind the bi-partisan group of federal congressmen who recently called for citizen support for a balanced federal budget this year.

Under the leadership of the council, civic leaders in the various congressional districts are meeting to institute a program of citizen action, which will take to Congress ample proof that the ordinary citizen is awake at last and wants his government to keep its spending within its income.

Meetings have been scheduled for the Fifth district in Mariboro on March 19; in the First district at Salisbury March 20 and in the Sixth district at Hagerstown March 22. Meetings in the other districts of the state are in preparation.

The growing popular demand for balancing the federal budget this year followed a joint public statement by sixteen members of Congress, including Maryland's Senator Millard E. Tydings. These legislators, members of both parties, stated the federal budget should be and could be balanced this year, and asked Congress to reduce federal spending to an amount at least equal to reasonably expected federal revenue.

The federal budget proposes spending $35.1 billions, while only $31.5 billions will be collected in taxes. The difference of $3.6 billions is to be made up of treasury cash surplus, which proponents of a balanced budget say is the accumulation of previous borrowing.

It is gratifying to note that this intensified action is not confined to Maryland. According to John L. Hougaard, executive director of the council and member of the Coordinating committee of the Citizens National Committee, state-wide citizen organizations in thirty-five other states are working in unison to take citizens' opinion to Congress demanding a balanced budget. These thirty-six states, distributed from California to Massachusetts, and from Florida to the state of Washington, are the action section of the Citizens National Committee.

Something Better Than Costly Substitutes

THE GOVERNMENT'S NEW CAMPAIGN to increase the output of low-priced clothing such as men's shirts and women's dresses has now been launched. If it succeeds, the public will be able to get these goods at somewhat higher prices in approximately three months' time.

In this drive the Office of Price Administration and the Civilian Production Administration are working together. The OPA has authorized higher cotton textile prices to encourage manufacturers to return to the low-priced field, and the needed fabrics. It is reasoned that this combination of incentive and compulsion will achieve results.

Whether it will or not depends on how well the two agencies have gauged the situation. If the price increases are not sufficient to permit the industry to turn out low-priced garments at a profit, then the government's power to allocate materials will prove ineffective. Under the American system goods cannot be produced at a loss, regardless of what Chester Bowles says.

It was failure to recognize this simple fact that produced the present shortage. Manufacturers have been producing more expensive fabrics for higher-priced articles because that was the way to operate at a profit. The result was that the public had to buy expensive items or do without, since the cheaper clothing simply disappeared from the market.

Consumers will pay more than pre-war prices, assuming the program is effective, but at least they will get what they want instead of costly substitutes. If the program results in another fiasco similar to that which has resulted from OPA control of butter, it is to be hoped that private enterprise will be given an opportunity to function.

Thrift Should Be Learned Early Now

THE POLICY of giving children real experience in the handling of money at home and at school is receiving considerable attention these days. The text of a symposium recently released by the Child Study Association of America deals with this subject. It was asserted that children must learn about money earlier today because they actually begin to use money sooner, and the lessons learned in the family help to shape their outlook on giving and receiving, on spending and saving.

It was pointed out that when families lived on the land and children were an economic asset, the situation was different than it is today. Under such circumstances parents were not so dependent on money for their security. When difficulties arose in the form of sickness or accident, relatives and neighbors came to the rescue. It may well be that as the number of urban residents increased, the fact of dependence on money for family security was not sufficiently impressed upon children in many instances, insofar as teaching them how to handle money was concerned.

It was suggested that a regular allowance for children be looked on as an educational device, but that some foolish spending is inevitable as children learn. Experiments conducted at school also were described. Boys and girls of thirteen who administered a school luncheon learned the techniques of making a budget and estimating costs, including overhead, and thus gained experiences over and above those of drill in arithmetic. Through group earning and spending, children appreciate the relative value of money and the social and financial responsibility involved in its use.

That thrift is needed in America today is apparent in many realms including government. Yet, it must be said that the federal government in recent years has been teaching a lesson of thrift to many of Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces albeit unwittingly. Many persons, receiving not much higher salaries than they received before the war, are paying income taxes to Uncle Sam each year far in excess of amounts they themselves saved in a similar period before the conflict began. But it is all to the good that other agencies are placing more emphasis on teaching the wise use of money.

Where China Must Use Good Sense

WHETHER the Far East is to become communized will depend to a large extent on the good sense of the Chinese. Marshal Malinovskiy, Soviet military leader in Manchuria, discloses that Russia is taking a line designed to create cleavage between the United States and China.

Of Russian relations with China Malinovskiy says that "we don't want those with gold in their pockets [American] to come in and handicap our friendship." He says the Reds will get out of Manchuria when American forces get out of China, and that if any interference is attempted the Red army will crush it.

Thus Russia seems determined to shape the future of China on the basis of power politics. If China is cowed by Red threats—and Russia has millions of adherents in Northern China—Moscow will establish complete control of the Orient. But if China realizes who its friend is, it will resist Soviet designs as it resisted those of Japan.

Apparently the expansive Soviet regime would like nothing better than to add 500,000,000 people to its 200,000,000 and thus embrace within its political system nearly half the people of the world.

Spot Daylight-Saving Time Is a Nuisance

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has indicated that he would support a national daylight-saving law if Congress acts on it.

The president so stated at a news conference in response to a query by a reporter who wanted to know if he would support daylight saving as an aid to the food situation, apparently on the theory that the general public might have more time for after-hour gardening.

A nation daylight-saving law would be much more preferable to the confusing and costly system of daylight-saving in spots, which has obtained throughout the country before and since the national wartime time law.

The spot system is an unmitigated nuisance, which should have been abolished long since. Successful operation of the universal advanced time system, even though that was faulty as applied to the winter season, is an argument in favor of a national law on the subject.

Congress should act on the president's hint.

Some growth in the federal establishment over the pre-war years is inevitable in the nature of bureaucracy, but it is conceivable that a government which goes along with 200,000 civilian employees before the war—when every department was overstuffed—should require nearly 3,000,000 now.

It seems high time for the professional wisecrackers to cut out those references to members of their families who are or have been in prison. They have become so monotonous with their repetition that they no longer have a grain of mirth in them.

Russian aggression in Manchuria makes it appear that all Stalin wants, like Hitler before him, is the land that adjoins his own.

One of the mysteries of the age is why a minority is always noisy than a majority.

BE TOLERANTBy GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Intolerance is the great curse of this world. I doubt very much that there would have been this tragic world war—or any war, for that matter had genuine tolerance ruled.

The published so-called "will of Adolf Hitler" reeked with intolerance.

Blaming everyone else for the war but himself, he said he never wanted war—but "it was wanted and provoked exclusively by those international statesmen who either were of Jewish origin or worked for Jewish interests."

And, now that the war is over, there still remains intolerance both in our own beloved country and among many nations of the world.

Both Hitler and Mussolini had a wonderful opportunity to prove themselves great leaders and constructive statesmen, but intolerance and love of power overcame them.

My father was a minister and was exposed to all secret societies, but he never advertised the fact. One day he stood talking to his Superintendent of the Sunday School, who was a rabid Mason. He talked and talked of its great merits and advantages, but my father merely nodded, saying not a word. After the talk was over, I asked my father why he didn't answer the Superintendent. His reply was: "It would have done no good—only have caused bitterness. He has a right to his honest belief and convictions. His membership in the Masonic order makes him happy, so why disturb it?"

Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, a great English editor in his day, and a famous reviewer of books, tells in his book "Books and Men" of a critic who unmercifully criticized a book that was just published, written by a woman who in former years was a great favorite, but this latest book of hers was written under trying circumstances. She was dying of cancer—but lived to read that review. Had her caustic review been known, he could have brought great happiness into her last hours!

We never know where our words will lodge, when uttered or written. If they have a bitter sting to them, or express intolerance, the wound they may open, or the hurt of heart they may cause, can never be adequately forgiven. We never know what another harbors in his heart. To be kindly, understanding, and generously tolerant is to be loved by all.

HEY! DOESN'T HE KNOW THERE'S A SHORTAGE?THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND*Eisenhower, in Pointed Lecture, Toned Down Russian War Scare, Pearson Says

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 15.—It's no secret that there's been considerable talk among the brass hats in the Pentagon building about war with Russia. Some of this comes from men who honestly feel war is inevitable and favor getting it over with right now. Others chiefly favor a little war talk because of its help in passing military conscription.

However, there can be no doubt about the views of the top military man in the War department—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Two or three weeks ago Eisenhower was attending a Washington dinner party when people began to talk about war with Russia. Irked by the conversation, he remarked that he was "amazed that so many people should suddenly be seriously considering the idea of war with Russia."

Then the chief of staff proceeded to give a pointed lecture on the foolishness of this war talk, which can be briefly summarized as follows:

"People who want war should only think a few minutes about the sacrifice Russia has made in the past five years—a loss of life and property so large we cannot conceive of it. A people who have suffered such a loss will not turn tail before any military force in the world today. But at the same time they will not go out and look for another war."

Today, however, the United States is the chief hope of Iran, and the Iranian minister, Mr. Mohammed Schayesteh, is kept busy, not in evading the Maryland police or snubbing the White House, but in co-operating with the State department to prevent his country's envelopment by Soviet Russia.

"Atom bombs or no atom bombs," the chief of staff continued, "war still means knocking out the opposing armies and establishing control over civilian populations. We saw what happened to the finest armies the world has ever seen. If we tried to conquer Russia there's no telling when we'd be faced with years of slogging through Siberia."

"And neither will we. This country is no more anxious to go to war than Russia. Our losses are great, and we want no more. Certainly the American people do not want to get involved in a war in which there can be no end but the destruction of the greater part of the world."

"Atom bombs or no atom bombs," the chief of staff continued, "war still means knocking out the opposing armies and establishing control over civilian populations. We saw what happened to the finest armies the world has ever seen. If we tried to conquer Russia there's no telling when we'd be faced with years of slogging through Siberia."

"We have nothing to gain to start with," concluded Eisenhower, "and could have nothing left when it is over."

From Persia to Iran

Time is a changer of many things. And time has wrought great changes in the status of one diplomatic mission in Washington—the legation of Iran.

It was just ten years ago that

BOLOMETER INVENTOR

ABILITY to see objects in the dark as far away as fifteen miles has been made possible through the invention of the super-conducting bolometer at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. passenger-carrying capacity this year.

United States airlines now have on order, or on option to buy, a fleet of 1414 aircraft with a total capacity of 58,184 passengers.

When this fleet gets into operation, by the end of 1946, it is expected to pile up ten billion passenger miles annually, compared with the 1945 total of three billion 525 million annual passenger miles.

Pan American, for instance, is planning on two flights daily between the Pacific Coast and Honolulu in the near future.

By the royalty system, a union would in effect take over part of the attributes of property ownership. While the owner would still have legal title to the property, his right to operate it, to make use of it, would be made dependent on the union. What the union would acquire is like a patent, or a right to give or withhold a license to do business.

UNION FOLK TO ESCAPE TAXES

The salaries paid United Nations Organization workers when headquarters are established in the United States will not be great.

They will, however, be enough to attract efficient workers. The gimmick in this arrangement lies in taxes. The general plan is that workers will be guaranteed a certain "take home" pay. If he is British, French, or any other nationality, UNO will take care of his tax at home.

Thus, if he gets $6,000 a year, it will be clear profit. If his home government should impose, say, a fifty per cent income tax, the UNO will pay that tax.

He will be free of United States income taxes and, presumably, with diplomatic status, will not have to pay tariffs on Scotch whisky, French wines, Cuban cigars or other goods which he might wish to import.

He would, of course, have to pay sales taxes on goods bought in New York, even though this might be lifted if the salaries of delegates and employees of UNO were regarded as outside the city.

GOVERNMENTAL FUNCTION

In a sense the royalty system would give to unions a function parallel to a function of government. In the social security system, employers are required, by the federal government, to pay to the government a tax to take care of the old age of employees. (In addition to a tax paid by the employees themselves).

In all the states, a similar tax is laid on employers by state governments to take care of unemployment of workers. The royalty proposal as it was put forward by Mr. Lewis, to be paid by employers into the union treasury, is analogous. However, again, the royalty system cannot be judged by the purpose to which the money is put, which may be any purpose at all.

That the royalty system has far-reaching implications is recognized in Congress. The so-called "anti-Petillo" bill, passed in the House by a vote of 222 to 43, specifically forbids the imposition of royalty payments upon employers, as well as several other practices of Mr. Petillo and his union.

Balanced Budget
Movement Spreads

THE MARYLAND PUBLIC EXPENDITURE COUNCIL reports that the people of the state are mobilizing behind the bi-partisan group of federal congressmen who recently called for citizen support for a balanced federal budget this year.

Under the leadership of the council, civic leaders in the various congressional districts are meeting to institute a program of citizen action, which will take to Congress ample proof that the ordinary citizen is awake at last and wants his government to keep its spending within its income.

Meetings have been scheduled for the Fifth district in Marlboro on March 19; in the First district at Salisbury March 20 and in the Sixth district at Hagerstown March 22. Meetings in the other districts of the state are in preparation.

The growing popular demand for balancing the federal budget this year followed a joint public statement by sixteen members of Congress, including Maryland's Senator Millard E. Tydings. These legislators, members of both parties, stated the federal budget should be and could be balanced this year, and asked Congress to reduce federal spending to an amount at least equal to reasonably expected federal revenue.

The federal budget proposes spending $35.1 billions, while only $31.5 billions will be collected in taxes. The difference of $3.6 billion is to be made up out of treasury cash surplus, which proponents of a balanced budget say is the accumulation of previous borrowing.

It is gratifying to note that this intensified action is not confined to Maryland. According to John L. Houghard, executive director of the coordinating committee of the Citizens National Committee, state-wide citizen organizations in thirty-five other states are working in unison to take citizens' opinion to Congress demanding a balanced budget. These thirty-six states, distributed from California to Massachusetts and from Florida to the state of Washington, are the action section of the Citizens National Committee.

Something Better Than Costly Substitutes

THE GOVERNMENT'S NEW CAMPAIGN to increase the output of low-priced clothing such as men's shirts and women's dresses has now been launched. If it succeeds, the public will be able to get these goods at somewhat higher prices in approximately three months now.

It seems high time for the professional wisecrackers to cut out those references to members of their families who are or have been in prison. They have become so monotonous with their repetition that they no longer have a grain of mirth in them.

Russian aggression in Manchuria makes it appear that all Stalin wants like Hitler before him, is the land that adjoins his own.

One of the mysteries of the age is why a minority is always noisier than a majority.

drill in arithmetic. Through group earning and spending, children appreciate the relative value of money and the social and financial responsibility involved in its use.

That thrift is needed in America today is apparent in many ways, including government. Yet, it must be said that the federal government in recent years has been teaching a lesson of thrift to many of Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces, albeit unwittingly. Many persons, receiving not much higher salaries than they received before the war, are paying income taxes to Uncle Sam each year far in excess of amounts they themselves saved in a similar period before the conflict began. But it is all to the good that other agencies are placing more emphasis on teaching the wise use of money.

Where China Must Use Good Sense

WHETHER the Far East is to become communized will depend to a large extent on the good sense of the Chinese Marshal Malinovsky, Soviet military leader in Manchuria, who recently called for citizen support for a balanced federal budget this year.

Of Russian relations with China Malinovsky says that "we don't want those with gold in their pockets [Americans] to come in and handicap our friendship." He says the Reds will get out of Manchuria when American forces get out of China, and that if any interference is attempted the Red army will crush it.

Thus Russia seems determined to shape the future of China on the basis of power politics. If China is cowed by Red threats—and Russia has millions of adherents in Northern China—Moscow will establish complete control of the Orient. But if China resists who its friend is, it will resist Soviet designs as it resisted those of Japan.

Apparently the expansive Soviet regime would like nothing better than to add 500,000,000 people to its 200,000,000 and thus embrace within its political system nearly half the people of the world.

Spot Daylight-Saving Time Is a Nuisance

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has indicated that he would support a national daylight-saving law if Congress acts on it.

The president so stated at a news conference in response to a query by a reporter, who wanted to know if he would support daylight saving as an aid to the food situation, apparently on the theory that the general public might have more time for after-hours gardening.

A nation daylight-saving law would be much more preferable to the confusing and costly system of daylight-saving in spots, which has obtained throughout the country before and since the national wartime time law.

The spot system is an unmilitarized nuisance, which should have been abolished long since. Successful operation of the universal advanced time system, even though that was faulty as applied to the winter season, is an argument in favor of a national law on the subject.

Congress should act on the president's hint.

Some growth in the federal establishment over the prewar years is inevitable in the nature of bureaucracy; but it is inconceivable that a government which got along with 920,000 civilian employees before the war—when every department was overstaffed—should require nearly 3,000,000 now.

It seems high time for the professional wisecrackers to cut out those references to members of their families who are or have been in prison. They have become so monotonous with their repetition that they no longer have a grain of mirth in them.

Russian aggression in Manchuria makes it appear that all Stalin wants like Hitler before him, is the land that adjoins his own.

One of the mysteries of the age is why a minority is always noisier than a majority.

BE TOLERANT

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Intolerance is the great curse of this world. I doubt very much that there would have been this tragic world war—or any war, for that matter had genuine tolerance ruled.

The published so-called will of Adolf Hitler reeked with intolerance. Blaming everyone else for war but himself, he said he never wanted war—that "it was wanted and provoked exclusively by those international enemies who either were of Jewish origin or worked for Jewish interests." And, now that the war is over, there still remains intolerance, both in our own beloved country and among many nations of the world.

Both Hitler and Mussolini had a wonderful opportunity to prove themselves great leaders and constructive statesmen, but intolerance and love of power overcame them.

My father was a minister and was opposed to all secret societies, but he never advertised the fact. One day he stood talking to his Superintendent of the Sunday School, who was a rabid Mason. He talked and talked of its great merits and advantages, but my father merely nodded, saying not a word. After the talk was over, I asked my father why he didn't answer the Superintendent. His reply was, "I would have done no good—only have caused bitterness. He has a right to his honest belief and convictions. His membership in the Masonic order makes him happy, so why disturb it?"

Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, a great English editor in his day, and a famous reviewer of books, tells in his book "Books and Men" of a critic who unmercifully criticized a book that was just published, written by a woman who in former years was a great favorite, but this latest book of hers was written under trying circumstances. She was dying of cancer—but lived to read that review. Had her caustic reviewer but known, he could have brought great happiness into her last hours!

We never know where our words will lodge, when uttered or written. If they have a bitter sting to them, or express intolerance, the wound they may open, or the hurt of heart they may cause, can never be adequately forgiven. We never know what another harbors in his heart. To be kindly, understanding, and generously tolerant is to be loved by all.

It was suggested that a regular allowance for children be looked on as an educational device, but that some foolish spending is inevitable as children learn. Experiments conducted at school also were suggested. Boys and girls of thirteen who administered a school luncheon learned the technique of making a budget and estimating costs, including overhead, and thus gained experiences over and above those of

ability to see objects in the dark as far away as fifteen miles has been made possible through the invention of the super-conducting bolometer.

About a year ago when Churchill visited Athens, he said to British Ambassador Leeper: "Tell me about this man Damaskinos. Would you describe him as a scheming medieval prelate?"

Churchill was referring to Archbishop Damaskinos of Greece. After a moment's thought, Leeper replied:

"I have never thought of it in exactly those terms, but I suppose the observer to see without his own position being detected."

passenger — carrying capacity this year.

United States airlines now have on order, or on option to buy, a fleet of 1,414 aircraft with a total capacity of 58,184 passengers.

When this fleet gets into operation, by the end of 1946, it is expected to pile up ten billion passenger miles annually, compared with the 1945 total of three billion 525 million annual passenger miles.

Pan American, for instance, is planning on two flights daily between the Pacific Coast and Honolulu in the near future.

American and TWA expect to boost their trans-Atlantic service within the next few months, depending on the speed with which four-engined planes come off the assembly lines.

All lines are concentrating on safety measures on overseas flights to overcome the natural reluctance of passengers to fly over water in land planes.

UNION Folk To Escape Taxes

The salaried paid United Nations Organization workers when headquarters are established in the United States will not be great.

They will however, be enough to attract efficient workers. The gimmick in this arrangement lies in taxes. The general plan is that workers will be guaranteed a certain "take home" pay. If he is British, French, or any other nationality, UNO will take care of his taxes at home.

Thus, if he gets $6,000 a year, it will be clear profit. If his home government should impose, say, a fifty per cent income tax, the UNO will pay that tax.

He will be free of United States income taxes and, presumably, with diplomatic status, will not have to pay tariffs on Scotch whisky, French wines, Cuban cigars or other goods which he might wish to import.

He would, of course, have to pay sales taxes on goods bought in New York, even though this might be lifted if the residences of delegates and employees of UNO were regarded as outside the city.

That the royalty system has far-reaching implications is recognized in Congress. The so-called "anti-Petillo" bill, passed in the House for the benefit of their workers. These introduce no new principle. Or, Mr. Lewis could say that his union proposes to maintain hospitals through contributions made by the union members, and that to do so the union workers must be paid higher wages. That would keep the matter within the area of ordinary negotiations about the wage rates to be paid direct to workers.

However, the use to be made of royalties by a union demanding them is not material.

By the royalty system, a union would in effect take over part of the attributes of property ownership. While the owner would still have legal title to the property, his right to operate it, to make use of it, would be made dependent on the union. What the union would acquire is like a patent, or a right to give or withhold a license to do business. To the degree that the right to make use of a property is more vital than their legal title to it, the change which the royalty system would make in the traditional attributes of property ownership would be farreaching.

Governmental Function

In a sense the royalty system would give to unions a function parallel to a function of government. In the social security system, employers are required, by the federal government, to pay, to the government, a tax to take care of the old age of employees. (In addition to a tax paid by the employees themselves.) In all the states, a similar tax is laid on employers by state governments to take care of unemployment of workers. The royalty proposal as it was put forward by Mr. Lewis, is to be paid by employers into the union treasury.

It is analogous. However, again, the royalty system cannot be judged by the purpose to which the money is put, which may be any purpose at all.

That the royalty system has far-reaching implications is recognized in Congress. The so-called "anti-Petillo" bill, passed in the House

Leslie B. Sharpless, Kitzmiller; J. C. Miller, Grantsville; William F. Frazee, Friendsville, all mayors; and C. E. MacMurray, Oakland, for the Deep Creek Lake section.

Fraley said the committee came as a result of a study of disasters in Maryland, made by Col. Barrett at the request of Gov. O'Conor, wherein it was learned that a great deal of confusion always followed a disaster because there was no one person in authority to direct action at the scene of the emergency.

Such a disaster committee will work with the state police, fire departments, Red Cross and other such agencies.

Injured in Fall

Mrs. S. H. Jackson fell at her home on Oak street Monday evening after attending a dinner for the Methodist choir members, and fractured a bone in her left leg, just above the ankle. Her sister, Mrs. Grace Sellers, Baltimore, who has been visiting here for a few weeks, will remain to care for her.

Marriage Is Announced

Miss Margaret Browning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linn Browning of Oakland, became the bride of Donald Edward Helbig, son of E. W. Helbig, South Third street, at St. Peter's rectory on Monday evening March 11, at 7 o'clock. The Rev. George W. Shipper officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Powers were the only attendants.

They will reside in Oakland where Mr. Helbig is now owner of the jewelry store, formerly operated by Lee B. Shaffer. Mr. Helbig was recently discharged from the navy.

Wed in Church

Miss Clover Culver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Culver, of Brookville, Pa., became the bride of Carl H. Everly, son of Hosea B. Everly, of Accident on the afternoon of March 6, at a wedding solemnized in the Methodist church at Grantsville. The Rev. Charles Sisk, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue sheer suit with navy accessories, and a corsage of white sweet peas. Her only attendant, Mrs. Benjamin Evans, Jr., of Lonacong, wore a navy print with matching accessories and corsage of gardenias and sweet peas. Mr. Evans served as Mr. Everly's best man.

The bride, who has been associated in business with her father at the Davidson store of the Union Supply Company, Connellsville, was graduated from Dunbar Township High school.

Dr. Gannon declared he was much interested and enthusiastic about the prospects of a hospital being erected in Oakland.

He has a wife and one daughter, aged 2.

In the army as head of a small hospital unit under the transportation corps he was able to cover almost all of the European battle ground. During his medical career he has already come in contact with several physicians from Oakland. He went through medical school and was graduated in the same class with Dr. Howard Rathbun. When an interne on the surgical staff of Johns Hopkins hospital, he became friends with Dr. Thomas A. Gonder, Jr., an interne in medicine, and while serving overseas was attached for a time to the One Hundred Fifty-seventh General Hospital where he made the acquaintance of the then Maj. A. E. Mance, at that time a chief of one of the hospital services. Dr. Mance is now practicing in Oakland, while Dr. Rathbun and Dr. Gonder are in cluding the Salvation Army Associated Charities and Allegany County Welfare Board were notified.

Red Cross Sets Up

There was, observers said, a splendid example of team work and cooperation. Radio announcements were made intended to reach disaster victims, so they would know that the Red Cross had assumed the responsibility of the emergency.

Had Small Apartments

Mrs. Dean stated that most of the fire victims had been living in one or two room apartments. There are a couple of large families among the group, a number of young married couples and several aged men, who have no other home or friends. Several veterans and their wives also lived in the old building, being unable to find housing or apartments elsewhere.

Some had relatives in town or nearby, and planned to move in with them. Mrs. Dean explained. Some had friends and some were taken in by neighbors. However, homes had to be located for a number, so through the assistance of other agencies, including the veterans' temporary housing office, emergency shelter was provided.

The Salvation Army offered the use of the Salvation Army outpost building on Virginia avenue as a shelter, and the Red Cross workers made arrangements to set up their cots and bedding there. However, this was not necessary as quarters were found for all who applied.

Most of the victims lost what little furniture they owned, and many lost practically all their clothing. Mrs. Dean said. Emergency clothing was provided so children could attend school Monday, and food credit orders were established at tall groceries for families which needed this type of assistance.

The Salvation Army, co-operating with the Red Cross served meals to seven families, provided three families with clothing, and two more families were instructed to return to the Virginia avenue outpost this morning for things they need.

The Salvation Army made available an emergency station for men at the outpost and for women at the citadel on North Mechanic street, in co-operation with the Red Cross chapter.

Field Worker Coming

Some families had been buying furniture on the installment plan and the Red Cross will check into this to make certain of any possible recovery from fire insurance which might have been carried by the finance companies.

Puderbaugh indicated he will be at the Red Cross office in the post office building, Pershing street all day today, as well as a disaster committee field worker from American Red Cross headquarters in Washington for the purpose of interviewing the victims and aiding them further.

Most of the victims of the fire will need some help, it was indicated, although some of them are regularly employed and some suffered no loss whatever. Mrs. Dean explained that the Red Cross will stand by these people during their task of rehabilitation and will aid them through the emergency.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Will Mark Anniversary Sunday

Candlelight Service at West Side School Will Follow Parade

All Girl Scouts and Brownies of the city of Cumberland will participate in the candlelight service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in West Side school, in observance of the thirty-fourth birthday of the national organization of Girl Scouts.

The occasion of the scouts' birthday is due cause for celebration this year since the conclusion of the war. The Girl Scouts in the United States are members of the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. During the war, these organizations went underground with all other democratic movements at the time of enemy occupation, but with the entrance of armies of liberation, scouting is springing up again, and for the first time since the beginning of the war the organization is now flourishing all over the world.

Preceding the service Sunday afternoon, a parade of all Brownie and Girl Scout troops will begin at the state armory and end at the school. Those participating in the parade will meet at the armory at 2:15 o'clock and the parade will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

The program which includes talks by the Rev. Dr. H. T. Bowserox, the Rev. Frederick Becker and Julius Schindler, is under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Mitchell. Service awards will be presented to the leaders by Mrs. G. Wilbur Seymour and vocal selections will be given by the Trinity Lutheran choir, Catholic Girls Central choir and Mrs. Blanche Gunter.

An All American evening will be held by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, April 30, according to plans made at a meeting of the group Wednesday evening at the VFW home, Union street.

Mrs. Grace Stepple was in charge of the business session and appointed Mrs. G. R. Golladay, Mrs. Mary Simons, Mrs. Grace Rosenberg, Mrs. Dorothy Palmer, and Mrs. Helene Bujno to make arrangements for the affairs.

Reports of the year were given by officers and Mrs. Laura Mitchell and Mrs. Clara Cunningham were enrolled as new members. A donation of $25 was voted to the Fort Meade hospital to provide games for veterans.

Mrs. Sadie Smith, who has served as color bearer for fifteen years, was honored at the meeting. Approximately 100 members attended the meeting, which was concluded with a social hour.

Committees were chosen to arrange for the next meeting, to be held Friday, April 5, at Woodmen's hall.

Mrs. May Williard, chairman of the social committee, will be assisted by Mrs. Katherine McIntosh and Mrs. Marian Marsh. The entertainment committee, headed by Mrs. Shafer, includes Mrs. Hartell and Mrs. Bertha Nichols.

Entertainment will include a sketch and a social hour. Sorority members are asked to attend the meeting.

reported on the progress of his effort to unify Chinese government and Communist factions. In talks with Mr. Truman and Secretary

Byrnes there was no doubt that he furnished fresh information on Russian activities in Manchuria as well.

The State department announced that Marshall will hold a news conference tomorrow (10:30 a.m.) at which he may make public some of his information on the Chinese and Russo - Manchurian situation.

Byrnes defended in his news conference the reliability of reports upon which the United States government has been building its

Iranian policy. He said that these reports telling of Russian troop movements in Iran come from sources believed by the United States government to be reliable;

some of them from American representatives.

There still was no official word from Moscow to the United States on Russia's own version of what is going on in Iran or why Russian troops are held there beyond the March 2 deadline for their removal.

However, Soviet Charge d'Affaires

Nikolai Novikov brought to Byrnes

a reply from his government to American inquiries as to Russian interest in $1,000,000.00 commercial loan. A proviso on Russian willingness to make broad-scale economic and commercial agreements had been attached to the loan proposal. Contents of the Russian reply were not disclosed.

Byrnes announced that Americans Envoy to Britain now home, would serve in place of Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson as representative of the State department at the dinner given tonight

by the City of New York for Winston Churchill. Byrnes was told that Acheson's sudden "ending of requests" earlier this week had been interpreted as an effort by the American government to dissociate itself from Churchill's controversial proposal for tightening Anglo-

American ties. Byrnes said Acheson has been too busy to go.

Heads of Borden Mining Company Visiting Property

Allegany County Concern Is Marking Ninety-ninth Year This Month

By RUDOLPH NICKEL
FROSTBURG, March 15.—Albert C. Borden and Russell Y. Smith, New York, president and vice president, respectively, of the Borden Mining Company, are spending the weekend here on an inspection tour of the company's property in this section.

In connection with their visit at a time which marks the beginning of the hundredth year of the company, it has been recalled that the Borden Mining Company was established in Allegany county in March, 1847, by William Borden, grandfather of the present head of the concern, and is one of the oldest corporations in Maryland and one of the first to mine coal on a commercial scale for railroad shipping in Allegany county.

The company owns extensive coal deposits and surface land in the Midlothian, Borden Shafft and Zillman areas of the Georges creek region and also on Big Savage mountain west of Frostburg to the Pinel road in Garrett county. The company's property also contains valuable clay deposits which are being mined by the Big Savage Refractories Corporation, this city, whose plant is located at Zillman.

Other officers of the company, besides Borden and Smith, are Arthur Lovell, secretary, and L. D. Lovell, treasurer, both of New York. The company maintains an office in Frostburg which is in charge of Stanley Espey, resident agent since January, 1940. He succeeded Robert Stallings, Cumberland. The late Davidson A. Armstrong, who preceded Stallings, was resident agent of the company for over fifty years until his death.

The Borden Mining Company was incorporated by a special act of the Maryland General Assembly, passed at the December, 1846 session. The incorporators were William Borden and W. S. Tisdale, New York city; Richard Borden, Jefferson Borden, Joseph Durfee and Phillip D. Borden, Fall River, Mass.; and John Hyne, George V. Dobbins and William A. Talbot, Baltimore, Md.

The Borden family were also the founders of Fall River, Mass., and owned various manufacturing concerns in that city and the Fall River line, whose steamboats at the beginning of their famous history were supplied with coal from the mines of the Borden Company in Allegany county.

The company ceased mining operations here in 1899. During recent years mining of its property has been carried on through operators both individual and corporate, who have leased various tracts and seams of coal.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

Little Miss Monday

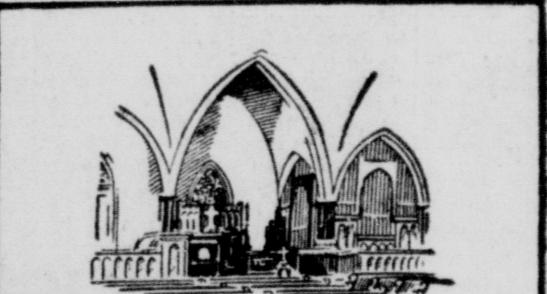

Her hair is still in braids . . . but she has learned the art of hanging out the wash . . . even has a certain technique, though hardly the polished finesse that comes after the first hundred Monday mornings.

Her mother is a wise woman who understands that good housewives are made at home. And her father is just as wise in his own way. He works hard, and sacrifices a great deal, because he wants his daughter to have "all the advantages that we never had."

But Mother's Monday lesson in housekeeping, and all Dad's well-meant advantages cannot insure their daughter's happiness. Sunday lessons are important too!

The Church, through religious training, provides children with the moral and spiritual foundations of happy, healthy living. And wise are the parents who accompany their children to Church . . . for they add to the advantage of Christian training the power of a Christian example.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the Church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday.

KEYSER, W. Va., March 15.—Piedmont high school of Preston county, and Piedmont high's Lions, of Mineral county, earned the right to battle it out Saturday night at 8 o'clock for the Region No. 4 scholastic basketball title by defeating Moorefield and Harpers Ferry tonight on the Potomac State school court before a gathering of 1,200 spectators.

Coach Roy Nutters' Kingwood quint nosed out Moorefield in the final minute of play by the score of 33 to 31 when Wolfe's field goal broke a 31-31 deadlock.

In the nightcap affair Coach Rodney Baker's Piedmonters took the measure of Harpers Ferry high school of Jefferson county, by the score of 34-18.

Score Is Tied Six Times

The Moorefield-Kingwood game was a thriller and was won by the latter after the score had been tied six times in the final half—20-20, 22-22, and 25-25 in the third period and 27-27, 29-29 and 31-31 in the last quarter.

Kingwood held an 8-7 edge at the quarter and was leading by three points at the half—20-17. George Hott's finder and free throw knotted the count for the first time at 20-20 and the score was tied up five more times before Kingwood emerged the winner in Wolfe's basket.

High point honors were shared by Snyder of Kingwood and Hott, of the Potomac Valley Conference champions, each player marking up an even dozen tallies.

Kingwood's two-point winning margin was gained at the charity stripe when the Preston counts converted 9 of 18 free throws while the Hardy county outfit was meshing 7 out of 13. The teams were even—Stephen in field goals with twelve each.

A total of twenty-three personal fouls were called on the teams—ten on Kingwood and thirteen on Moorefield. Collins, Kingwood guard, made his exit on five personals in the third period.

Leading from start to finish, Piedmont eliminated Harpers Ferry, winner of last week's sectional tournament at Shepherd College, in a game in which Sayers and Wolford accounted for twenty-two points.

Sayers Gets 14 Points

Piedmont tossed in fifteen fielders and scored four times while the visitors were limited to six baskets and scored six points in eleven tries at the 15-foot line.

Quentin Sayers collected 14 points to head the attack, scoring five fielders and converting 4 of 5 free shots. Wolford hooped four fielders.

Nine personal fouls were plastered on Piedmont and only four on Harpers Ferry.

The winner of the Kingwood-Piedmont game Saturday night will represent Region No. 4 in the state championship tourney at West Virginia University, Morgantown, March 22 and 23. The lineups.

"Ball" Is New Term
For One over Par

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15 (AP)—For the benefit of pros and duffers alike PGA Tournament Manager Fred Corcoran today coined a long-needed golfing term.

The word is "bat"—meaning one over par.

For many years, Corcoran pointed out, the word "bogey" has been incorrectly used both by golf players and writers. It does not mean one over par, but means the score which a fair player would make on a given hole.

Segura, McNeill
Will Meet Today
For Tennis Title

2,000 See Finalists Win over Talbert, Russell in Indoor Meet

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—Don McNeill of Orange, N. J. and Francisco (Pancho) Segura of Guayaquil, Ecuador, stroked their way into the finals of the national indoor tennis championships tonight, and will meet tomorrow in Madison Square Garden. Joyce weighed 139; Kapilow 142%.

Segura, three-time national inter-collegiate champion at Miami (Fla.) university, advanced to the finals the hard way, defeating top-seeded Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del. 6-3, 6-3, 6-4, in an upset before more than 2,000 fans at the Seventh Regiment armory.

McNeill who had the title in 1938, also made his way into the championship round with a straight set victory, eliminating Alejo Russell of Bueno Aires, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, to gain an even break in this board-court battle of the Americas.

Talbert, booted both by a sore back and a trick knee, was simply no match for the little Ecuadorian who swings a tennis racket like a baseball bat.

The winner tomorrow will succeed Frank Kovacs, who turned professional shortly after winning the indoor singles crown at Oklahoma City in 1941, the last time this tournament was held.

The manner in which McNeill mastered Russell tonight made it extremely doubtful that the Ecuadorian ace would be able to turn the trick.

Adragna Brothers To Arrive Sunday

Sammy and Mimi Adragna, Pittsburgh brothers, who will oppose Frankie Gillen and Jimmie Ricco in the ten-round main bout and eight round semi-final on Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker's professional fight card Monday at the state armory, will arrive here tomorrow night, accompanied by their manager, Syd Pastorious, it was learned yesterday.

Ricker said that Monday's five-round 32-round program will get under way promptly at 8 o'clock.

Pastorious made an attempt yesterday to get a spot on the card for his classy junior welterweight, Ritchie Callura, but Ricker was unable to match him at this late date. Callura expects to accompany the Adrnagnas on their trip here.

Sale of general admission tickets will get under way Monday at noon at the Fort Cumberland hotel barber shop. General admission tickets will be sold for seats in the balcony. Judging from the advance sale a large crowd will be on hand for Cumberland's first professional fight treat in five years.

The SPORTLIGHT By GRANTLAND RICE

Latin-American Rivalry

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12.—No one can shake Larry MacPhail loose from the idea that baseball is headed for a big boom in Latin America and that what we often call "The National Game" will soon be the National Game of Mexico, Panama, Venezuela, Colombia, Cuba and other tropical spots.

The answer is simple enough, "Col. MacPhail says with emphatic gestures. "The kids of these countries are baseball crazy. It is the only game most of them want to play. Their knowledge of baseball today is amazing. I'm not guessing about this, for I've been in the middle of at least part of it."

"To my mind this will be the best possible build-up for any good-neighor policy for Latin-American friendship. Baseball could do more good in this respect than all the diplomats we could ever assemble."

"We don't have to sell baseball to Latin America. They'll sell it to us. They have many improving players, they have keen youth coming into the game, they have the climate and they have the playing fields. In my opinion Latin American baseball should be encouraged in every possible way."

Idea Seems Sound

This seems like a sound idea. We have never yet been able to see how the new Mexican League could be rated as an outlaw circuit. After all United States baseball rules and laws can't cover the earth. If Mexico or some other Latin American nation is willing to pay better salaries to certain players than they can draw in the United States, why shouldn't they take it? And who is going to bar any of these players for life or even five years?

Some five or six years ago it was Larry MacPhail's idea to build up two Brooklyn teams. One to shoot for the pennant around 1940 or 1941—the other to replace this aging squad. Almost the entire Brooklyn first team of 1946 will be drawn from those younger players brought to the Dodgers five or six years ago.

This 1946 Dodger enrollment still lacks pennant pitching all along the line, but it has a good chance to finish second or third against some tough opposition, such as Cardinals, Cubs, Pirates and Giants. Oddly enough one of the main worries is that all three New York-Brooklyn clubs face is this same matter of pitching. This applies to Yankees and Giants as well as Dodgers.

The word is "bat"—meaning one over par.

For many years, Corcoran pointed out, the word "bogey" has been incorrectly used both by golf players and writers. It does not mean one over par, but means the score which a fair player would make on a given hole.

The golf glossary, with its new addition, stands:

"Two over par—"buzzard."
"One over par—"birdie."
"Two under par—"eagle."
"Three under par—"double eagle."

"Hole in one—"dodo."

Leaving Out a Star

Some days ago we attempted a rating of the best baseball-football combinations such as Frank Frisch, Snuffy Stirnweiss, Lou Gehrig, Mathewson, Overall, Ray Fairham from Philadelphia writes that we have left out the star bet of the lot.

"Hi" name is Mickey Cochrane," says Ray. "Cochrane is still remembances.

"Hole in one—"dodo."

McCormick's Lame Back
Responds to Treatment

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 15.—First Baseman Frank McCormick, after playing his first full game with the Philadelphia Phils against the Philadelphia Athletics, said today his lame back has responded to treatment.

A Miami physician says the trouble is in the disc between two vertebrae. Frank has difficulty stooping over to swing at low balls.

Manager Ben Chapman said McCormick will be sent to John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, if the back doesn't show improvement within a few days.

Kapilow and Joyce Fight Blistering 10-Round Draw

Welters Slug It Out before 10,179 Cash Customers
in Battle at Madison Square Garden

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—Willie Joyce and Danny Kapilow, each fighting his second bout of the last eleven days, slugged their way into the blistering ten-round draw tonight in Madison Square Garden, and will meet tomorrow in the opening round.

The pitcher is giving him a base, in spite of himself.

Four balls have become so closely associated with a walk in the minds of baseball fans that they cannot imagine a pitcher who has delivered three bad balls feeling anything but miserable. That is because their baseball knowledge doesn't go back far enough.

In the good old days the pitcher's lot was an easier one. In 1879 a batter was up on his toes. In 1880, eight; in 1882, seven; in 1884, six; in 1887, five.

Not until 1889 was the number of balls on which a batter could be walked reduced to four.

The umpire's "Ball Four" was always so unwelcome a shout to the pitcher's ear.

Put on as a substitute show when the Tami Maurillo-Joe Baks heavyweight rumpus was called earlier in the week, this lightweight-welterweight thump party had just about everything.

Kapilow, who made his last start a week ago last Monday, got off fast, scoring with solid hooks through the first three rounds and slowing Joyce with two stiff rights in the third.

Following up his knockout victory over Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson in Washington only last Monday, Willie kept pouring in, and the pressure began to tell somewhat in the fourth. In this heat, he raised a lump on Danny's right eye that grew up to golf ball size and had the optic all but closed at the finish.

This heat, and the eighth, were Willie's hottest. In the latter session he charged in on Dan as he defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-4 in an exhibition game today. Score: N. Y. (A.) .100 401 000-2 12 1

Radio Network Schedules New Sports Program

By JEAN MEEGAN

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — A new weekly sports program headed-up by Harry Wismer will be inaugurated at 6:30 Saturday night on ABC. The first three broadcasts will come from Florida where Wismer is watching the major league baseball teams train. The show, however, will aim at a complete coverage of all fields of sports rather than concentration on one sport.

A first hand report from a member of the Indian food delegation to America on the famine now facing India will be given on CBS's "Country Journal" Saturday at 9:30 a.m. The idea is to show how America could help India avert this impending calamity.

The one-hundred and forty-fourth anniversary of the United States Military Academy at West Point will be marked with a program on NBC at 6 p.m. Saturday. Speeches will be made by Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Maj. Gen. Taylor, superintendent of the academy. The cadet choir and glee club will sing and the newly elected captains Glenn Davis and Felix "Doc" Blanchard, will be interviewed.

John G. Winant, United States ambassador to the court of St. James, will make his first report to the nation since returning from England, on NBC's "Our Foreign Policy" program at 7 Saturday night. Jack Kirkland, author of "Tobacco Road," will be the male guest on "Leave It to the Girls" at 9 Saturday night on Mutual. Madge Evans, Jinx Falkenburg, Robin

By JEAN MEEGAN

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — A new weekly sports program headed-up by Harry Wisner will be inaugurated at 6:30 Saturday night on ABC. The first three broadcasts will come from Florida where Wisner is watching the major league baseball teams train. The show, however, will aim at a complete coverage of all fields of sports rather than concentration on one sport.

A first hand report from a delegation of the Indian food delegation to America on the famine now facing India will be given on CBS's "Country Journal" Saturday at 9:30 a.m. The idea is to show how America could help India avert this impending calamity.

The one-hundred and forty-fourth anniversary of the United States Military Academy at West Point will be marked with a program on NBC at 8 p.m. Saturday. Speeches will be made by Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Maj. Gen. Taylor, superintendent of the academy. The cadet choir and glee club will sing and the newly elected captains, Glenn Davis and Felix "Doe" Blanchard, will be interviewed.

John G. Winant, United States ambassador to the court of St. James, will make his first report to the nation since returning from England, on NBC's "Our Foreign Policy" program at 7 Saturday night. Jack Kirkland, author of "Tobacco Road," will be the male guest on "Leave It to the Girls" at 9 Saturday night on Mutual. Madge Evans, Jinx Falkenburg, Robin

For All FaithsIn Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother,
David Edmund Bean, aged 26, who sacrificed his life one year ago, March 16, 1945, on Luzon.

Dear Edmund, how we miss you.
Since you went away,
We never can forget you.
No matter where we stray,

One year ago today, dear,
You joined the Heavenly Band.
Always those who loved you,
One to hold your hand.

God wanted you, dear Edmund,
He called you to the skies.
To dwell with Him forever,
Where pleasure never dies.

Some day we'll go to meet you.
When our work on earth is done,
We'll meet and greet each other
Before that Great White Throne.

Written by his Mother,
MRS. SARAH U. BEAN
AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother,
David Edmund Bean, aged 16, who sacrificed his life one year ago, March 16, 1945, on Luson.

Dear Edmond, how we miss you,
Son of David and Anna Bean.
We never can forget you,
No matter where we stray.

One year ago today, dear,
You joined the Heavenly Band,
Away from those who love you.
No one to hold your hand.

God wanted you, dear Edmond,
He called you to the skies,
To dwell with Him forever,
Where pleasure never dies.

Some day we'll go to meet you,
When our work on earth is done,
We'll meet and greet each other
Before that Great White Throne.

Legion Initiates 800 Men in Public Ceremony Here

Paul H. Griffith Is Guest Speaker; Thousands View Parade

When the American Legion opened its doors to veterans of World War II, the country's newest group of ex-servicemen were given an opportunity to preserve and protect peace and democracy won in two great wars. Paul H. Griffith, Uniontown, Pa., and Washington, D. C., past department commander of Pennsylvania, told an audience of 2,000 persons at the state armory last night.

Addressing about 800 new Legionnaires who had just been obligated in a mass initiation, and complimenting them upon their interest in the Legion, Griffith said the national organization now has more than 3,000,000 members and over 15,000 posts. He referred briefly to the fact that Pennsylvania has 218,000, or more than any other state in the union, and has hometown post, Lafayette Post, Uniontown, has 2,500.

Griffith, who is slated to be the next national commander of the Legion, outlined work of the organization in helping to write and sponsor the GI Bill of Rights, for the benefit of veterans of World War II. He said legionnaires were among the first to realize that returning servicemen would need assistance to help them through a readjustment period and rehabilitation to civilian life. The matter was taken up officially by the organization, and Griffith was one of the fathers of the GI Bill. He said the bill has been amended twice to meet the needs of returning veterans and will probably be amended again and again before it is sufficient.

Neighbor of Cumberland

The guest speaker came here after canceling nationwide address over a Pittsburgh radio station where he was scheduled to appear tonight. But because he "feels that he is a neighbor of Cumberland, and has visited here many times," he cancelled his other engagement and came here to participate in the mass induction ceremony.

During his address, he commented on the point that veterans of the First World war are already outnumbered veterans of World War II in Legion membership. But he expressed the opinion "that the young fellows will be kind of glad to have the old fellows hang around awhile, since the principles of the organization make all members commandos."

Griffith is a veteran of both wars.

Daniel F. McMullen, past department commander of Maryland, was master of ceremonies for the program. He told the audience that the class initiated last night had been named in honor of David W. Sloan, the Legionnaire who obtained the most new members for Fort Cumberland Post this year. Sloan had been ill and hospitalized for several weeks, he said, and each time he was visited by his friends and relatives, he said he wanted to be here for the induction.

Pay Tribute to Sloan

MCMullen said, "It is almost providential that we will pay our final respects to him tomorrow afternoon," and then he had the audience stand in thirty seconds of silence and reverence, "in memory of a man who devoted the best part of his time and energy to the Legion and the cause of veterans and their families."

Others who gave brief talks included, David Shear, Romney, W. Va., commander of the Tenth district, West Virginia, who brought greetings from Ray Berg, Piedmont, W. Va., department commander of that state. Shear said there are now 38,536 Legionnaires in the state and 2,967 in his district. He thanked Fort Cumberland Post for helping organize Knobley Mountain Post, Ridgeley.

Frank Powers, Frostburg, Mountain district vice commander, greeted the new members and said membership of the district now exceeds 4,000, with 1,500 in Cumberland, 800 in Frostburg and the balance in six other posts, the newest being Midland Post No. 169 with ninety members.

George Henderson, past department commander; J. Nelson Truby, department adjutant; Joseph Cannell, Maryland department commander and C. Wells White, Maryland Department membership chair man also spoke.

Graham Gives Obligation

Commander Samuel A. Graham, of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, assisted by post officers, gave the obligation and greeted the new members and visitors. He explained the aims and objects of the Legion and urged new members to learn all they can about the organization and keep it strong and active. He said the local post is one of the largest, and should soon be the largest in the state. Graham has now a total of 28,100 Legionnaires.

Preceding the ceremony, which marked the twenty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the American Legion, a street parade was held, featuring posts of the Mountain district, musical organizations and the Ridgeley post. The Ridgeley post had nearly all its membership in the parade and at the ceremony.

Special recognition and attention went to Midland Post No. 169, American Legion, the youngest post in the district, which came here with more than half of its membership of ninety. The post held a special meeting, and the first money spent from its new treasury was to charter a bus to bring the new Legionnaires here. DeSaile Mather, World War I veteran, commander of the district's youngest post, accompanied the new Legionnaires from Midland here, and took the obligation with them.

Parade is Reviewed

Capt. Thomas F. Conlon was parade marshal and the parade was reviewed from a reviewing stand at Baltimore and Liberty streets. Several thousand spectators lined the route of march.

Following the ceremony, there was a buffet luncheon and dance at the Armory for members of the Legion and their families.

Taxicab Operator To Seek Extension Of Permit Date

Lee E. Carpenter, Jr., owner and operator of the Yellow Top Cab Company, said last night that he expects to confer with Mayor Thomas S. Post today or Monday regarding extension of a temporary permit granted to him last November to operate his business at the Pershing street lot opposite the post office. The permit expired yesterday.

Under the terms of an agreement reached November 30 and filed in the city clerk's office, the mayor and city council authorized Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, to grant the temporary permit, which gave Carpenter permission to erect a frame building as an office and to operate his business at that location.

In the agreement, Carpenter agreed to remove the building and cease operating any taxicab business at that location not later than March 15. Carpenter operates a fleet of six cars.

He stated last night that he has not made arrangements to move the business to a new location, pending the conference with Mayor Post.

At the request of Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich, Ralph L. Rizer yesterday reminded the mayor and city council of the expiration of the permit.

Mayor Post indicated last night that he will not oppose extending the time limit of the permit.

B. & O. Equips Five Yard Engines With "Smoke Consumer" Devices

Railroad Official Says Move Is Step toward Smoke Prevention

morning on the Pittsburgh division. The unit takes one year to cover the entire system, and has been visiting the Cumberland division each year since the fall of 1941, when it was organized.

Describes Device

Sample, who is a member of the B. & O. committee on smoke control for the system, explained that the "smoke consumer" device is a new and inexpensive method of controlling smoke. It consists of a valve attached to the fire door of a locomotive, and is turned on when the fireman puts in coal. The device holds smoke in the fire bed until it is consumed, preventing its escape.

He stated that eventually the other ten yard engines here will be equipped with the device, which costs $25 to install. Before the introduction of the "smoke consumer," the more expensive overfired steam jets, three on each side of the fire box, were used, but they were ineffective compared to the new method.

Sample said that H. F. Wyatt,

Five of the fifteen yard engines of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here have been equipped with a new "smoke consumer" device as another step toward smoke prevention and conservation of fuel. W. E. Sample, Baltimore, assistant superintendent of fuel conservation for the railroad, said yesterday in an interview.

Sample heads a mobile unit of ten men, all former firemen and enginemen picked on the recommendation of their respective division superintendents. The men are known as instructors of fuel economy, and visit all divisions of the system to give advice on methods of smoke control. No Cumberland men are in the unit.

The group has been here for the past six weeks, and left yesterday afternoon to start work Monday.

Sample said that H. F. Wyatt,

"When can the plan be carried out? Of course, we cannot speak for the United States government nor for the Town of Ridgeley, so far as the City of Cumberland is concerned we can say positively that actual construction work will begin next year if the citizens of Cumberland will give their consent and the United States government and Ridgeley will co-operate. So far as the City of Cumberland is concerned, there is absolutely no need to delay the work until 1948. Section 1 of the charter of the City of Cumberland provides for the proper method of procedure in this case, which we quote: '... the Mayor and City Council ... may purchase and hold real, personal or mixed property, or dispose of the same for the benefit of said city; provided, that the purchase or alienation of such estate, when the value thereof shall exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars, shall be first submitted to the voters of the city, either at a general election for members of the city council after twenty days' public notice by the mayor and city council, and provided that the voters shall elect by a majority of the legal voters thereof.'"

"We are happy to avail ourselves of the invitation of The Cumberland News to express our views on the flood prevention plan for Cumberland. We are definitely in favor of the plan as worked out by the army engineers. We believe it is sound and will be effective. We will work for its completion with all our energies because we sincerely believe that the City of Cumberland cannot advance very far with the menace of floods hanging over its business district, and we should take advantage of the aid offered by the federal government while it is available. We believe the latest estimated cost to Cumberland of $1,070,663 as share of the total costs is cheap enough in return for the benefits which the city will receive.

"We wish the citizens of Cumberland to obtain a true and complete picture of the various phases of the matter, which apparently are not well known to many of them, so therefore let us consider more specifically the various problems before us. The latest total estimated cost for flood prevention is $8,940,000 which the federal authorities have broken down as follows:

Cumberland's share $1,070,663 Ridgeley's share 450,076 U. S. Gov't share 7,419,261

Total $8,940,000

Must Pay Respective Shares

"In order for the plan to be carried to a successful completion, each of the three separate governments, the City of Cumberland, the Town of Ridgeley, and the United States government, must agree to pay and must pay their respective shares of the costs, or what may be finally determined as their respective shares. If any one of these bodies should fail or refuse to pay its share, the whole plan would fail or be delayed.

"If the charter requires the city to have a referendum to the voters to approve the purchase or sale of $10,000 worth of real estate, what do you think should be our procedure when we propose to purchase real estate and spend money amounting to one hundred times $10,000?

"In order to have the referendum there is no need to wait until the next general city election in 1948. The law specifically provides that the referendum can be held at a special election to be ordered by the mayor and city council to be held under an ordinance for such purpose, made and passed after twenty days' public notice, and we believe this should be done before our state legislature meets in January of next year so that the assent of the voters may be obtained in advance and everything made in readiness to go ahead with the least possible delay.

The cost of the special election for the referendum will be insignificant in comparison with the amount of money involved in the plan and the very great benefits which will be derived from the successful completion of the plan. The water improvement bonds of 1941 for the construction of the additional water line from Lake Gordon required a referendum to the voters to be taken after the act was passed, and the voters later approved it by referendum.

We believe this is one reason why everyone now appears to favor the construction of the second water line. We believe there should be no bond issues for any purpose unless they are approved by a majority of the voters either before or after they are authorized by the legislature, and there is no need for the referendum to cause any delay whatsoever.

The program work on the Ridgeley side was not done at the same time. This claim was disputed by the army engineers. This matter involves a very real problem as it involves the town of Ridgeley in the State of West Virginia, over which we have no control. We fully appreciate the difficult position Ridgeley is in and we will make every effort to aid Ridgeley through friendly counsel and advice, but obviously Ridgeley will have to carry its fair share of the cost, or some other body will have to make up the difference.

Need Definite Commitments

"The other requirements for the completion of the plan are that the United States government and the City of Cumberland will each make definite commitments to pay what is finally determined to be their respective shares of the costs, which commitments have not yet been made. We will give our vigorous and wholehearted support toward the completion of the flood prevention plan because we think it is sound

"We are firmly convinced that a majority of our voters will approve the flood prevention plan and the issuance of the necessary bonds to accomplish the same.

Dentists Returned From War Will Reopen Offices

Dr. Frank Stamp and Dr. William Ryan To Resume Practice Together

Two local dentists who closed their offices almost three years ago to serve with the armed forces have returned and will reopen their South Cumberland offices at 136 Virginia avenue, on Monday.

Dr. Frank E. Stamp, Baltimore Pike, and Dr. William H. Ryan, LaVale, started their practice together in July 1938 at this address, although Dr. Stamp had been practicing here sometime before that date.

Dr. Stamp, the senior partner, served in the navy as a Lieutenant commander from August 12, 1943 until November 14, 1945. He spent about twelve months of his naval career at a navy training station, Newport, R. I., and twelve months aboard an attack transport in the Pacific, participating in several major operations. He was in the Philippines, New Guinea and Okinawa.

Legion Initiates 800 Men in Public Ceremony Here

Paul H. Griffith Is Guest Speaker; Thousands View Parade

When the American Legion opened its doors to veterans of World War II, the country's newest group of ex-servicemen were given an opportunity to preserve and protect peace and democracy won in two great wars. Paul H. Griffith, Uniontown, Pa., and Washington, D. C., past department commander of Pennsylvania, told an audience of 2,000 persons at the state armory last night.

Addressing about 800 new Legionnaires who had just been obligated in a mass initiation, and complimenting them upon their interest in the Legion, Griffith said the national organization now had more than 3,000,000 members and over 15,000 posts. He referred briefly to the fact that Pennsylvania has 218,000, or more than any other state in the union, and has hometown post, Lafayette Post, Uniontown, has 2,500.

Griffith, who is slated to be the next national commander of the Legion, outlined work of the organization in helping to write and sponsor the GI Bill of Rights, for the benefit of veterans of World War II. He said legionnaires were among the first to realize that returning servicemen would need assistance to help them through a readjustment period and rehabilitation to civilian life. The matter was taken up officially by the organization, and Griffith was one of the fathers of the GI Bill. He said the bill has been amended twice to meet the needs of returning veterans, and will probably be amended again and again before it is sufficient.

Neighborhood of Cumberland

The guest speaker came here after canceling nationwide address over a Pittsburgh radio station where he was scheduled to appear tonight. But because he "feels that he is a neighbor of Cumberland, and has visited here many times," he canceled his other engagement and came here to participate in the induction ceremony.

During his address, he commented upon the point that veterans of the First World war are already outnumbered by veterans of World War II in Legionnaires. But he expressed the opinion "that the young fellows will be kind of glad to have the old fellows hand around awhile since the principles of the organization make all members comrades."

Griffith is a veteran of both wars.

Daniel F. McMullen, past department commander of Maryland, was master of ceremonies for the program. He told the audience that the class initiated last night had been named in honor of David W. Sloan, the Legionnaire who obtained the most new members for Fort Cumberland Post this year. Sloan had been ill and hospitalized for several weeks, he said, and each time he was visited by his friends and relatives, he said he wanted to be here for the initiation.

Pay Tribute to Sloan

McMullen said, "It is almost providential that we will pay our final respects to him tomorrow afternoon," and then he had the audience stand in thirty seconds of silence and reverence, "in memory of a man who devoted the best part of his time and energy to the Legion and the cause of veterans and their families."

Others who gave brief talks included: David Shear, Romney, W. Va., commander of the Tenth district, West Virginia, who brought greetings from Ray Berg, Piedmont, W. Va., department commander of that state. Shear said there are now 38,538 Legionnaires in the state and 2,967 in his district. He thanked Fort Cumberland Post for helping organize Knobley Mountain Post, Ridgeley.

Frank Powers, Prostburg, Mountain district vice commander, greeted the new members and said membership of the district now exceeds 4,000, with 1,500 in Cumberland, 800 in Prostburg and the balance in six other posts, the newest being Midland Post No. 189 with ninety members.

George Henderson, past department commander; J. Nelson Truby, department adjutant; Joseph Cantrell, Maryland department commander and C. Wells White, Maryland Department membership chairman also spoke.

Graham Gives Obligation

Commander Samuel A. Graham, of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, assisted by post officers, gave the obligation and greeted the new members and visitors. He explained the aims and objects of the Legion and urged new members to learn all they can about the organization and keep it strong and active. He said the local post is one of the largest, and should soon be the largest in the state. Maryland has now, a total of 28,160 Legionnaires.

Preceding the ceremony, which marked the twenty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the American Legion, a street parade was held, featuring posts of the Mountain district, musical organizations and the Ridgeley post. The Ridgeley post had nearly all its membership in the parade and at the ceremony.

Special recognition and attention went to Midland Post No. 189, American Legion, the youngest post in the district, which came here with more than half of its membership of ninety. The post held a special meeting, and the first money spent from its new treasury was to charter a bus to bring the new Legionnaires here. DeSales Mahler, World War I veteran, commander of the district's youngest post, accompanied the new Legionnaires from Midland here, and took the obligation with them.

Parade is Reviewed

Capt. Thomas F. Conlon was parade marshal and the parade was reviewed from a reviewing stand at Baltimore and Liberty streets. Several thousand spectators lined the route of march.

Following the ceremony, there was a buffet luncheon and dance at the Armory for members of the Legion and their families.

Taxicab Operator To Seek Extension Of Permit Date

Lee E. Carpenter, Jr., owner and operator of the Yellow Top Cab Company, said last night that he expects to confer with Mayor Thomas S. Post today or Monday regarding extension of a temporary permit granted to him last November to operate his business at the Pershing street lot opposite the post office. The permit expired yesterday.

Under the terms of an agreement reached November 30 and filed in the city clerk's office, the mayor and city council authorized Ralph Rizer, city engineer, to grant the temporary permit, which gave Carpenter permission to erect a frame building as an office and to operate his business at that location.

In the agreement, Carpenter agreed to remove the building and cease operating any taxicab business at that location not later than March 15. Carpenter operates a fleet of six cabs.

He stated last night that he has not made arrangements to move the business to a new location, pending the conference with Mayor Post.

At the request of Commissioner B. Helfrich, Ralph L. Rizer yesterday reminded the mayor and city council of the expiration of the permit.

Mayor Post indicated last night that he will not oppose extending the time limit of the permit.

B. & O. Equips Five Yard Engines With "Smoke Consumer" Devices

Railroad Official Says Move Is Step toward Smoke Prevention

Five of the fifteen yard engines of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here have been equipped with a new "smoke consumer" device as another step toward smoke prevention and conservation of fuel. W. E. Sample, Baltimore, assistant supervisor of fuel conservation for the railroad, said yesterday in an interview.

Sample heads a mobile unit of ten men, all former firemen and engineers picked on the recommendation of their respective division superintendents. The men are known as instructors of fuel economy, and visit all divisions of the system to give advice on methods of smoke control. No Cumberland men are in the unit.

The group has been here for the past six weeks, and left yesterday afternoon to start work Monday.

Capt. Thomas F. Conlon was parade marshal and the parade was reviewed from a reviewing stand at Baltimore and Liberty streets. Several thousand spectators lined the route of march.

morning on the Pittsburgh division. The unit takes one year to cover the entire system, and has been visiting the Cumberland division each year since the fall of 1941, when it was organized.

Devices

Sample, who is a member of the B. & O. committee on smoke control for the system, explained that the "smoke consumer" device is a new and inexpensive method of controlling smoke. It consists of a valve attached to the fire door of a locomotive, and is turned on when the fireman puts in coal. The device holds smoke in the fire bed until it is consumed, preventing its escape.

He stated that eventually the other ten yard engines here will be equipped with the device, which costs $25 to install. Before the introduction of the "smoke consumer," the more expensive overfired steam jets, three on each side of the fire box, were used, but they were ineffective compared to the new method.

Sample said that H. F. Wyatt,

Dr. Stamp is a native of New York state but came to Cumberland in 1929 to begin his practice here. He is a graduate of the University of Maryland, is married and the father of three children.

Dr. Ryan, also a graduate of University of Maryland, became associated with Dr. Stamp here on July 5, 1938. Exactly five years later, the partners stored their equipment and entered the services. Dr. Stamp was commissioned a captain in the army and spent most of his army career in the European theater of operations. He entered service July 20, 1943, and was discharged November 28, 1945. He served at Douglas Island, N. Y., for a time, but sailed for overseas December 8, 1943.

Dr. Ryan didn't say anything about it, but said his friend and partner Dr. Stamp volunteered the information that Dr. Ryan was awarded the Bronze Star medal for service above and beyond the call of duty. It was at the battle of St. Lo, when nearly a hundred men from his outfit were wounded and about two score killed, that Dr. Ryan rendered all assistance he could, took charge of the wounded and supervised their safe evacuation to rear zones. He was cited and received the Bronze Star medal.

Dr. Ryan is married and the father of one child. He is a native of Frostburg.

Post, Hinze, Light, Sharp Issue Statement of Views On Flood Control Proposal

and proper, but it would be an error to try to minimize the very definite difficulty which now exists in persuading the three parties involved to agree with each other and to perform their part of the contract. We confidently believe the plan can be carried out if the citizens of Cumberland will join with us in the effort.

"When can the plan be carried out? Of course, we cannot speak for the United States government nor for the Town of Ridgeley, but so far as the City of Cumberland is concerned we can say positively that actual construction work will begin next year if the citizens of Cumberland will give their consent and the United States government and Ridgeley will co-operate. So far as the City of Cumberland is concerned, there is absolutely no need to delay the work until 1948. Section 1 of the charter of the City of Cumberland provides for the flood prevention plan for Cumberland. We are definitely in favor of the plan as worked out by the army engineers. We believe it is sound and will be effective. We will work for its completion with all our energies because we sincerely believe that the City of Cumberland can advance very far with the menace of floods hanging over its business district, and we should take advantage of the aid offered by the federal government when it is available.
